

Responding to COVID-19

The pandemic continues to drive unprecedented challenges across the U.S. and the world. It came on so fast all we could do is react. Now it's time to innovate and prepare for the future.

Spirit Seminars can serve organizations by helping them learn from experience, identify best practices, avoid big mistakes and become far more resilient. Epidemiologists tell us this pandemic is far from over and that it won't be our last. Let us help you prepare for "the next big one" by pulling together what we're learning from this one.

Schedule these five one-hour sessions with us on Zoom as weekly "lunch-and-learns":

Session One. Listen + Learn + Lead

We'll listen to our experiences in this pandemic so as to learn how to lead better in the next.

Session Two. Best Practices for WFH

Working from home (WFH) can be far more productive and less costly if people know how to do it right.

Session Three. Best Practices for Supervising Remote Workers

Learn what research shows are the myths and realities of supervising people working from home.

Session Four. Educating for Safety and Self-Care

We need to stay well and safe while handling the added stressors of uncertainty, isolation, and anxiety about the future.

Optional Session Five. Special Issues and Q&A

We can provide an additional open forum on participants' concerns that arose during the first four sessions, along with Q&A.
